BUSY WEEK AT CHAUTAUQUE

Many Interesting Entertainments There, Large Crowds in Attendance, Wags Andrew Chautauque Here Next Year.

The initiation of the Chautauque in Adams County was witnessed by a large number of people, and the crowd at the Grove Field, on South Main, more than 100. The introduction of the entertainment movement here is well advanced, and the dream of the promoters is not too distant.

A special concert by the Girty-hay Band was the special feature, and the crowd from 10 o'clock until 10:30.

The program for the evening was beautifully opened by prayer by Dr. J. A. Bingham, president of the Theological Seminary, Mrs. Hattie B. Bingham, president of the Ladies' Aid Society, and a prayer by the choir.

Dr. Koffer introduced Prof. Charles P. Jackson of Girty-hay College, who delivered the inaugural address. Prof. Jackson is a thoughtful and earnest man, and his address was well received.

The Chautauque was inaugurated by Lewis Miller, one of America's greatest philanthropists, at Adams County, N. Y., in 1871. The object of the work was originally to give the name and the work to the world.

The Chautauque is now in the hands of the Chautauque Association, which is a body of men and women who are interested in the work.

ONE OF THOSE TUNNEL KISSES

By JERRY CRISP Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

There is a woman whose fidelity has been tested in a most unusual way. She has been tested in a way which is not only unusual, but which is also very interesting. The story is as follows:

While she was living in a small town, she was known for her fidelity. She was a woman of great character, and her fidelity was well known to all who knew her.

One day, she was walking through a field, and she saw a man who was looking at her. She was startled, and she ran away from him. She was afraid that he was a robber, and she was afraid that he would harm her.

She was walking through the field, and she was looking for a way to escape. She was looking for a way to escape, and she was looking for a way to escape.

She was walking through the field, and she was looking for a way to escape. She was looking for a way to escape, and she was looking for a way to escape.

She was walking through the field, and she was looking for a way to escape. She was looking for a way to escape, and she was looking for a way to escape.
